Early Diagnosis is Key to Saving Cracked Teeth

Because people are living longer and more stressful lives, they are exposing their teeth to many more years of “crack” inducing habits, such as clenching, grinding, and chewing hard objects. These habits plus complex reconstructive procedures leave teeth more susceptible to cracks.

Early diagnosis is the key to helping save cracked teeth. Diagnosis can be difficult due to vague pain on biting and/or the patient has trouble explaining the complaint.

The two most common complaints to look for are biting pain and thermal sensitivity, especially to cold. With pulpal involvement, there may be signs and symptoms of irresolvable pulpitis or necrosis. A crack extending onto the root surface will likely have a periodontal defect.

The cracked tooth treatment plan varies depending on the location and extent of the crack. If pain with chewing is the only symptom, a tight fitting band may confirm the diagnosis. If the banding resolves the pain with chewing, a full coverage restoration may keep the tooth pain free. Any thermal sensitivity usually indicates the pulp is involved and root canal therapy is needed before reconstructing with a crown.

In all cases of cracked teeth, the patient should be fully informed that prognosis is unpredictable. In spite of treatment, some cracks may continue to progress and separate, resulting in loss of the tooth. A crown provides maximum protection, yet does not guarantee success in all cases.

Many cracked teeth can be saved with early diagnosis, appropriate endodontic therapy and full coverage restorations. ■

Dr. Dayna Duke earned her D.D.S. from O.U., completing her endodontic specialty training at the VA Medical Center in Long Beach, California.

Convenience for your patients...

We are network providers for the following insurance companies: Delta Dental (all except Patient Direct), Aetna (PPO & DMO), Cigna (Radius PPO Only), MetLife, BlueCross BlueShield Association (OK, IL, NM, TX & Dearborn National) If your patient is enrolled in another insurance plan, we will gladly file the claim for them and in most cases only ask for the patient’s estimated copay. We accept all major credit cards, cash and check.

Hold the Date for our Annual Seminar

August 23, 2013 - Doctors and Staff Welcome!

Join us as David Mainz "America's Personal Health Improvement Expert" shares the latest information on vitamin supplements, longevity, and information on cholesterol that even your physician doesn't know.

Really!

You'll learn the best and worst foods for your teeth, which foods help manage stress, and much more. For fun, David will lead us all through the popular game show "Family Food!" and you can root for your favorite contestant from the audience. You'll appreciate the great information you can use in both your personal and professional lives, and have lots of FUN, too.

Meinz has been a full-time professional speaker since 1991 and has earned the Certified Speaking Professional (CSP) designation in the National Speaker's Association, a distinction currently held by only seven percent of all professional speakers. He is
