Determining Your Appointment Type

We offer two appointment types to help accommodate your endodontic needs. The more information you can provide us with will help us better care for your patient.

We've compiled some helpful hints to keep in mind when determining the appointment type your patient may need (located in the boxes below).

It is always best to send a referral and x-ray (if possible) before the appointment. You can do so by fax (referral card only), mail or e-mail. This will allow our doctors to make sure the patient is scheduled appropriately with the right amount of time.

It is also helpful when sending a referral to put the patient's legal name, phone number, tooth number and symptoms or comments noted by the referring doctor, as not all of these things are evident by film alone. By letting us know the history of the tooth and future treatment plan, it will help us understand the goal for the patient. Also note if there are any other medical conditions or concerns regarding the patient. Having a referral keeps the communication and treatment personal from general practitioner to specialist and helps instill trust in the patient by both doctors. We appreciate working with you to provide your patients with excellent endodontic care ■

Staff Vitals — River

River — Endodontic Assistant

River is one of our endodontic assistants who joined the EA team last spring. She attended Custom Dental Assisting School in Edmond. River loves her job, working with amazing doctors and staff here. She said, “There is nothing better than helping a patient get out of pain.” In her spare time River does volunteer work, likes watching sports, fishing, hanging with friends and family, traveling and photography.
